

Planned Flaring - 12 April

We have today started the stand down of our operations in preparation for our £140M plant investment project.

To do this, we are currently using our elevated flare. But to minimise community disruption we are working to ensure this is for a limited period of time during today only.

The use of our flare is planned, is part of its design, and is completely safe.

The stand down will enable a programme of upgrade work to be carried out to help reduce the frequency of flaring by improving reliability.
